

The following histograms represent the daily high temperatures in San Mateo, California in May of 2014.

The following chart represents the annual revenue in billions of dollars of Nike.

The following bar graph represents wine consumptions of several different countries.

The following Time Series Plots represent the United States market shares as a percentage of world manufacturing.

